Dear Readers,

You can no longer avoid the topic; it controls the world. Every day in Africa countless children still starve, desperate refugees stand at the gates to Europe (strictly speaking, why is there no pandemic there?), but this is all nothing versus the Corona danger . . . because of fear of the spread of the virus the world has pressed STOP. The consequence of this is that Greta Thunberg has become jobless, because if it continues this way, we will have reached the climate goals for the end of 2020.

The world stands on its head because much was decided out of fear and panic. Fear is always a poor advisor no matter what it concerns. However, if you sometimes separate yourself from the horror messages of the mainstream media and look around their periphery, it is not so bad after all. Or?

Please do not misunderstand me: I do not want to whitewash anything here or downplay the dreadful destinies and how they take place at the moment. But also, has much not already happened before Corona? Was the health care system in Italy not already ailing before and were the intensive [care] beds not saved up, but only now it is shown in the media every day? Regrettably have older ill people not died from a virus infection before? Was Corona actually responsible for the deaths of these now counted people, or yet perhaps some resistant hospital germ for which they did not search? Do more people currently actually die? The Corona Crisis raises many questions, particularly because it is lacking in meaningful, comparable data.

Mankind is bombarded every half hour with the absolute numbers of the infected. Then sometimes everybody becomes afraid or even panics. But it is not stated how many of the counted infected have light or even no symptoms, and also not how many of the dead were dying with the virus, but not from the virus. These are only a few of the many inconsistencies in the tangled mess of figures around Corona.

Why this great fear? Because we do not know the virus, because we have no medications, because we are powerless. At any rate the politicians and their advisors see us thus and "protect" us as they lock us up and rob us of our fundamental rights.

The old medical healing methods, the natural healing methods and homeopathy, no matter what they may be called, have very many methods against virus illnesses. Among others this is demonstrated on the Online-Homöopathie-Kongress for Corona Virus and the Swiss physician Andreas Bircher, MD who recommends the Super-Heating Therapy (only for heart healthy people). His famous grandfather, the physician Oskar Bircher-Benner (creator of muesli of the same name) kept every one (!) of his assigned patients healthy during the time of the Spanish Flu with this exact method. Because every virus dies at over 40°C, a healthy person therefore reacts precisely with a fever to a virus infection. However, many of our physicians are not trained in this healing art anymore. They only know the chemical methods.

We here at raum&zeit have made it our duty to collect, investigate and make available all of this information around Corona beyond the horror press. Some of it is here in this Issue (among others from Ruediger Dahlke, MD) and of course on our Homepage www.raum-und-zeit.com/gesundheit/coronavirus/ which is updated daily.

In this never before seen situation we still do not know what the background is. A concealed financial crisis? Simply the ignorance of the politicians? An operation controlled by WHO which has fallen apart at the seams? A little bit from all? We would like you to make an as objective as possible picture for yourself and we will do our best to continue publishing information that you otherwise do not, or only with difficulty, receive. We are able to do this because we are independent. However, this is only possible if you remain loyal to us into the future. Even if we are not afraid of the virus, the economic consequences of the virus-hype, and above all the measures triggered by it, are already reflected as little more than numbers. Just as the potential consequences for our democracy and our society.

A crisis is always also an opportunity. It helps us, so that we learn from the mistakes, by looking at ourselves critically without fear, but also favorably in this current situation here and now. What does this small, clever microbe teach us at this moment? For example: slowing down – traffic jam is just a foreign word. Nature is very thankful and recovers incomprehensibly fast. We notice just what is and who is really important in our lives. Continue this list for yourself.

In conclusion, I would also like to let you participate in a nice dialog which recently took place. A few days ago my son said to me: "Mom, I find it actually really cool that I have completed my high school graduation. Because later I can say: I graduated during the Corona crisis, and was sometimes not allowed in the school." I replied: "That's for sure, really cool! I was just in the Chernobyl class!" My son: "Really! Chernobyl? But Mom, at that time, that really was dangerous!"

In this sense
Remain loyal to us! Keep well and fit!
